200 Years into the Future Showcase - For All Ages

Much has changed over the last two centuries. 200 years ago there were no phones or cars and electricity was still decades away. The average life expectancy was only 40. The Valley Community Library invites you to reflect on the advances and changes to the world over the last 200 years and imagine what the future will look like 200 years from now.

What do you think the world will be like 200 years from now? Can you picture what daily life will look like? Use your creativity to portray your ideas and enter the Valley Community Library's 200 Years into the Future Showcase. You can write a short story, paint, color, sculpt, use LEGOs, or any other medium to show what you picture the future will look like.

All ages are encouraged to participate.

Participants will receive a $1 off fines coupon for their entry into this showcase.

Entries are due by February 18.

Stop in at the library to read and view how some think the world will look in 200 years on February 22.
